

Internet sales and khiyâr al-majlis

- e-Commerce [1]

Sheikh Name: Sheikh Khâlid al-Mushaykih, professor at al-Imâm University, al-Qasîm branch

Date: 11 years 21 weeks ago

Question in English : What is the ruling on ordering a product over the Internet where the transfer of money is immediate via credit or debit card and the product is later delivered to the person who requested it. How does this fulfill the conditions of "ittihâd ul majlis" and "khiyâr ul majlis"?

English Answer: As for the issue of the two parties meeting in the same place (ittihâd al-majlis), I would say that this clearly does not exist. However, I do not know what you mean by "fulfilling" this as a condition. As for the option of the session (khiyâr al-majlis), I would say that this option is quite available for both the seller and the purchaser as long as they do not leave the online session.

- e-Commerce

Source URL: <http://en.islamtoday.net/quesshow-185-552.htm>

Links:

[1] <http://en.islamtoday.net/taxonomy/term/185>